

Beat the Odds wants to thank the businesses and individuals of Petersburg for their generous support.

With your donations, we have been able to help with travel expenses, provide the cancer support group, training and equipment for chemotherapy, and education for the public.

Here's a new way we are helping people with cancer: chore services.

When families are dealing with cancer and cancer treatment, everyday tasks can become overwhelming. Beat the Odds is working with Cornerstone Home Health to offer chore services: someone to help with housework, meals and other needs.

To find out how to get help with chores, contact Jennifer Bryner, director of nursing at Petersburg Medical Center, your chemotherapy nurse at PMC, or Sharon Hunter, home health nurse.
